

Resident Assistant Training Learning Outcomes

Residence Life & Housing
Curry College

---

Each session during Resident Assistant Training was planned with one or more of the following Resident Assistant Training Learning Outcomes in mind. These Learning Outcomes highlight specific skill/topic areas that Resident Assistants should be familiar and comfortable with by the time training ends.

RA Training Learning Outcome #1

Resource Knowledge

List and describe important campus resources determining the multiple ways they may impact the position, and connect those resources with typical student/resident concerns and issues for possible referral.

RA Training Learning Outcome #2

Community Development

Discuss the importance of developing community, and apply the community development model to design effective and productive strategies for community development based on student population needs.

Student Accountability

Recognize behavioral concerns contrary to respectful, thriving living environments and actively identify and employ college and department protocols and procedures to resolve those concerns.

Helping Skills

Recognize the common characteristics of students in distress and create awareness of healthy practices for student success and personal well-being through role modeling and educational programming.

RA Training Learning Outcome #5

Diversity & Inclusion

Identify personal identities in relation to the diversity of others and create a hall environment that demonstrates openness, appreciation, and respect of various identities.

Administrative

Recognize and restate the expectations of the position while also explaining the importance these hold to the larger departmental mission.
