

POLITICS AND HISTORY

Students will develop an understanding of political processes and the historical development of societies. Students will broadly study the history of the United States and a variety of other countries, highlighting political, economic, legal, cultural and social dimensions. Graduates choose a variety of career paths including government and public service, political consulting, the ministry, librarianship, law, journalism, education, business, and administration of non-profit organizations such as historical sites. The largest number of graduates have gone into business.
